

LOGLINE :

The woman's attempt to save humanity failed and ended her being confined to an asylum for dangerous criminals, where her adventures begin after meeting her defense lawyer.

SYNOPSIS :

A convicted felon, Luna Doe, was charged with double homicide for killing her unborn twins. She denies the charges and insists she's innocent since the twins are cyborgs implanted inside her to kill everyone. And that she intends to save humanity from extinction.

Instead of imprisoning Luna while waiting for her trial, the state ordered her to be admitted to Bradley Institution, a mental health facility for dangerous criminals, for a psychiatric evaluation. Luna remained quiet, not talking to anyone until Jacob Shaw, the state-appointed defense lawyer for her, showed up, handling the riveting case. The convicted felon trusted her new attorney.

Jacob discovers that his client has no records of her existence. He is now deep into his investigation, finding out what happened, and believing his client's story. The brilliant lawyer helps the convicted felon escape. Together, they go on a thrill-chilling goose ride of their lives to save humankind. Will the dynamic duo succeed and finds out the truth?