

LOGLINE :

A known screenwriter is on top of her game, but the recent health scare changes her life completely, unraveling the truth about her existence.

SYNOPSIS :

Brenna White, a rising screenplay writer, is celebrated for her recent big win. She's been recognized for her unique writing style and has received various prestigious awards, earning respect from her peers. Brenna is proud and grateful for what she has accomplished. And keeps pushing herself toward her big goal of winning the coveted Oscars. She will not stop until she achieves it.

One recent life-changing event shook Brenna's world apart. She was devastated and angry at the circumstances, considering that her dreams finally came true. It took her a while to accept her faith.

A sound of a laptop keyboard startled her and woke her up in the middle of the night. Upon her investigation, she was shocked at what she uncovered. She couldn't believe her eyes. Was it a reality, or was it all a dream?

BRENNA is convinced that there is another world that is paralleled to ours. She vows to solve the mystery that she just unfolded.